Labor, Human Rights and Non-Discrimination Policy

Item	Details
Policy Owner	Human Resources Department in collaboration with ESG/Compliance
Approver	Managing Director
Effective Date	16 May 2026
Review Cycle	At least once a year or whenever there are significant changes
Scope	Directors, executives, and employees of all categories of the Company, including relevant parties throughout the value chain. Subsidiaries shall adopt or endorse this Policy in accordance with their respective approval processes.

Union Petrochemical Public Company Limited (the "Company") recognizes that respecting labor rights and human rights is a fundamental basis for conducting business responsibly, transparently, and sustainably.

The Company has established this Policy based on the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UNGP), covering the principles of non-discrimination, equality, diversity, and participation in employment and business operations.

1. Objectives

- Establish the Company's principles and minimum standards regarding labor and human rights.
- Prevent, mitigate, and remedy human rights impacts that may arise from business activities, products, services, and business relationships.
- Define responsibilities, grievance channels, remedies, monitoring mechanisms, and appropriate disclosure of performance.

2. Scope of Application

This Policy applies to the Company's directors, executives, and employees of all categories. Subsidiaries shall adopt or endorse this Policy in accordance with their respective approval processes.

3. Principles and Practices

3.1 Freedom of Employment and Prohibition of Forced Labor

The Company prohibits forced labor, debt bondage, human trafficking, detention, threats, retention of personal identification documents, and the unlawful charging of recruitment fees to employees.

Overtime work shall comply with applicable laws and the Company's requirements. Employees have the right to resign in accordance with applicable laws and employment contracts without being subject to punishment or threats.

3.2 Prohibition of Child Labor

The Company shall not employ individuals below the minimum age prescribed by law and shall verify proof of age prior to commencement of employment.

Where the employment of young workers is legally permitted, the Company shall not assign them hazardous work or work that may adversely affect their health, safety, morals, or education, and shall strictly comply with legal restrictions regarding working hours and the nature of work.

3.3 Freedom of Association and Collective Bargaining

The Company respects employees' rights to form or join, or not to join, employee organizations, labor unions, or welfare committees, as well as their right to express opinions and engage in good-faith negotiations in accordance with applicable laws.

The Company shall not interfere with, discriminate against, threaten, or retaliate against employees for exercising such rights in good faith.

3.4 Non-Discrimination and Diversity

The Company provides equal opportunities in recruitment, employment, compensation, benefits, training, performance evaluation, promotion, disciplinary action, and termination of employment without discrimination on the grounds of race, color, nationality, ethnicity, religion, sex, gender identity or expression, sexual orientation, age, disability, health status, family status, political opinion, membership in an employee organization, or any other status protected by law.

The Company promotes diversity and inclusion and provides reasonable accommodation for persons with disabilities and vulnerable groups.

3.5 Fair Compensation, Working Hours, and Benefits

The Company shall provide wages, overtime pay, holiday pay, and benefits at no less than the minimum standards required by law, based on the principles of fair compensation and equal pay for work of equal value.

Compensation shall be determined based on duties, responsibilities, knowledge, skills, experience, and performance according to transparent criteria.

The Company shall review unexplained or unjustifiable compensation differences and take appropriate corrective action.

3.6 Prevention of Harassment and Abuse

The Company does not tolerate bullying, intimidation, violence, harassment, sexual harassment, or any conduct that creates a hostile work environment, whether occurring through verbal or physical actions, physical contact, messages, images, electronic media, business travel, or work-related activities.

Supervisors are responsible for preventing and addressing such incidents and shall promptly refer them to the responsible functions without ignoring or neglecting the matter.

3.7 Occupational Health, Safety, and Well-being

The Company shall provide a safe and hygienic working environment, assess and control risks, provide appropriate personal protective equipment, conduct training, and monitor employees' health based on relevant risk factors.

Employees have the right to report hazards and, in good faith and in accordance with safety procedures, stop or refuse work where there is reasonable belief that the work presents a serious and imminent danger, without retaliation for exercising such rights in good faith.

3.8 Personal Data and Privacy

The Company shall collect, use, disclose, and retain personal data of employees, applicants, contractors, and stakeholders only to the extent necessary and on an appropriate legal basis.

Access rights shall be restricted, retention periods shall be established, and appropriate security measures shall be implemented. Health information and other sensitive personal data shall receive special protection.

3.9 Migrant Workers, Contractors, and Supply Chain

The Company shall treat migrant workers equally and verify that their employment is lawful. The Company prohibits the retention of passports or personal identification documents and prohibits the unlawful charging of recruitment fees.

The Company establishes human rights expectations for business partners and contractors and may conduct assessments, require corrective action plans, suspend work, or terminate business relationships where serious violations are identified or where corrective actions are not implemented within the specified timeframe.

3.10 Community Rights and Vulnerable Groups

The Company respects the rights and dignity of local communities, indigenous peoples, and vulnerable groups.

The Company shall seek their opinions prior to implementing projects that may have significant impacts and shall assess impacts on health, safety, the environment, livelihoods, and access to resources.

The Company aims to avoid involuntary displacement and, where avoidance is not possible, shall proceed in accordance with applicable laws and the principles of fairness, participation, and livelihood restoration.

4. Human Rights Due Diligence

The Company conducts Human Rights Due Diligence (HRDD) based on the level of risk, covering the Company's activities, operational areas, business partners, contractors, new projects, and significant mergers and acquisitions.

The HRDD process shall include the following:

- Identify rights-holders and actual or potential human rights impacts.
- Assess the severity, scope, remediability, and likelihood of such impacts.
- Establish measures to avoid, prevent, and mitigate impacts, together with responsible parties.
- Monitor effectiveness using data, evidence, and feedback from affected persons.
- Communicate results as appropriate and provide remedies where the Company has caused or contributed to adverse impacts.

5. Grievance Mechanisms and Protection of Complainants

Employees and stakeholders may raise concerns or submit complaints through supervisors, the Human Resources Department, the Whistleblowing channel, suggestion boxes, or other channels announced by the Company.

The Company shall handle complaints confidentially and conduct investigations by individuals without conflicts of interest. All parties shall be given an opportunity to provide explanations, and complainants, whistleblowers, and witnesses who act in good faith shall be protected from retaliation.

Deliberately providing false information or making allegations in bad faith may be subject to consideration under the applicable regulations.

6. Remediation

Where the Company is found to have caused or contributed to human rights impacts, the Company shall take appropriate corrective and remedial actions, taking into consideration the needs of affected persons and the severity of the incident.

Such measures may include cessation of the conduct, restoration of rights, adjustment of working conditions, medical care, apologies, compensation, rehabilitation, or measures to prevent recurrence.

Complainants have the right to request a review or appeal in accordance with the procedures established by the Company.

7. Roles and Responsibilities

Function / Person	Key Responsibilities
Managing Director / Chief Executive	Provide direction, approve the Policy, allocate resources, and monitor significant issues.
ESG/Human Rights Working Group	Coordinate HRDD, monitor action plans, maintain evidence files and KPIs, and report results.
Human Resources Department	Oversee labor rights, employment, compensation, employee development, employee grievances, and training.
HSE / Safety Officer	Oversee occupational health and safety, health monitoring, and contractors operating on Company premises.
Procurement / Contract Owner	Communicate requirements, conduct screening, and monitor business partners and contractors.
Legal / Compliance/DPO	Provide legal advice, conduct investigations, oversee disclosures, and protect personal data.
Supervisors and Employees	Comply with the Policy, report risks, cooperate with relevant processes, and refrain from retaliating against complainants.

8. Monitoring, Disclosure, and Review

The Company establishes performance indicators and maintains traceable evidence, such as policy acknowledgment, age verification records, training records, complaints, case closure within the applicable SLA, risk assessment results, corrective measures, and significant human rights violation incidents.

Information shall be disclosed in the One Report, Sustainability Report, or on the Company's website, as appropriate and in accordance with applicable requirements.

The Policy Owner shall review this Policy at least once a year and submit amendments for approval when revisions are required.

9. Violations

Violations of this Policy may result in disciplinary action in accordance with the Company's work rules and applicable laws, taking into consideration the facts, severity, damage, intent, and principles of fairness.

For business partners or contractors, the Company may require corrective action plans, suspend work, or terminate contracts in accordance with the applicable terms and conditions.

10. Effective Date

This Policy was approved and shall become effective from 16 May 2026 onwards. It shall be reviewed at least once a year or whenever there are material changes to applicable laws, standards, or the business operating context.

Issued on 16 May 2026
