BUSINESS CODE OF CONDUCT

Union Petrochemical Public Company Limited

BUSINESS CODE OF CONDUCT

Message from the Chairman

With the intention of enabling the Union Petrochemical Group to conduct business and grow on a foundation of integrity, good governance and responsibility to all stakeholders, the Board of Directors considers it appropriate to establish this Business Code of Conduct.

This Code sets out the policies and practices governing the Group's responsibility to stakeholders, as well as the principles for conducting business in accordance with international standards. It is intended to inform the Group's directors, executives and employees of the practices established by the Group and to guide them in achieving business objectives while reflecting the organization's values and culture.

The Group also aims to ensure that its business partners and all related stakeholders understand and share these principles, so that we may continue to grow together sustainably.

BUSINESS CODE OF CONDUCT

The Union Petrochemical Group shall conduct its business and ensure that relevant personnel comply with the following Business Code of Conduct:

1. Conduct business with honesty, integrity and ethics in dealings with customers, the Company, related persons and the public.

2. Conduct business through standardized operating systems and effective controls, applying full knowledge and capability with due care, using sufficient and verifiable information and evidence, and complying with applicable laws and requirements. The Company shall oversee its subsidiaries and work with them to establish standardized operations and effective controls.

3. Conduct business in accordance with environmental quality standards

   3.1 Conduct business with regard to environmental conservation and safety management standards, and comply with applicable environmental laws and regulations.

   3.2 Promote activities and provide training on the conservation of natural resources and the environment to build environmental awareness and provide employees with accurate knowledge and understanding.

   3.3 Promote efficient and economical use of resources, such as reducing the use of water, electricity and paper.

4. Combat corruption

   4.1 Employees must not give or offer gifts or other benefits to any external person, including government officials, representatives, managers, business partners or others, with the intention of inducing that person to act or refrain from acting unlawfully or in breach of their duties, or of improperly exchanging such benefits for an undue privilege.

4.2 Employees must not solicit or accept gifts or other benefits for themselves or others in order to induce or refrain from performing an act in the course of their duties.

4.3 Business dealings with government agencies, state enterprises and private entities, whether in Thailand or overseas, must be conducted transparently, ethically and in compliance with the laws of Thailand and the laws of the countries in which the Union Petrochemical Group conducts business.

5. Do not infringe intellectual property rights

5.1 Employees must not use another person's information, documents, computer programs, software, books, articles, videos, audio recordings or other works in a manner that infringes that person's intellectual property rights, regardless of whether the owner or rights holder has asserted or reserved those rights.

5.2 All employees are responsible for protecting the intellectual property of the Union Petrochemical Group and must not use or allow others to use the Group's intellectual property without authorization.

5.3 Any work created by employees, or resulting from work performed for the Union Petrochemical Group, shall be the intellectual property and asset of the Group. Upon leaving employment, employees must return all intellectual property, including works and inventions, to the Group, regardless of the form in which it is held.

6. Respect human rights

6.1 Human rights: Respect the dignity, privacy and rights of every person who interacts with the Company in the course of their duties. Do not engage in, or encourage, any violation or infringement of human rights.

6.2 Employee health, safety and security: Support employee health, safety and security to promote good health and a safe working environment. Control workplace hazards and take measures to prevent accidents and work-related illnesses.

6.3 Working conditions

6.3.1 Promote equality in employment. Do not support direct or indirect discrimination on grounds including nationality, skin color, race, gender, gender identity, age, disability, religion, lawful political opinion or other personal characteristics.

6.3.2 Provide employees with appropriate benefits and welfare, such as a provident fund and annual leave.

6.3.3 Establish appropriate and fair procedures and processes for submitting and considering grievances and complaints.

6.3.4 Where a disciplinary violation or breach of rules requires investigation, the Human Resources Department or the relevant management function shall investigate the employee concerned to ensure fairness.

7. Protect business confidentiality

7.1 Do not disclose material business information or confidential information concerning the Company or its stakeholders to which employees have access or which they learn through their work.

7.2 Do not use information for any purpose without the Company's consent.

7.3 Do not use internal Company information to seek improper benefits for oneself or others.

8. Disclosure of information: Disclose information accurately, transparently and completely, as required by law.

9. Conduct toward stakeholders

9.1 Conduct toward shareholders

9.1.1 Be accountable to shareholders with respect to information disclosure, operating practices and the use of internal information. Executives must act honestly and diligently and make decisions with integrity, prudence and fairness toward all major and minority shareholders, for the fair benefit of shareholders.

9.1.2 Refrain from any action that may give rise to a conflict of interest.

9.1.3 Do not seek personal or related-party benefits from one's position or from confidential information of the Union Petrochemical Group.

9.2 Conduct toward customers

9.2.1 Comply fairly with agreements and terms with customers. If an agreement or term cannot be fulfilled, promptly inform the customer so that the parties can jointly find a solution and prevent damage.

9.2.2 Strive to achieve customer satisfaction by providing quality services that meet standards, and seek effective and efficient ways to meet customer needs.

9.2.3 Disclose information about products and services accurately and completely.

9.2.4 Allow customers to make complaints concerning defects in products or services, and respond promptly to their needs.

9.2.5 Treat customers fairly in relation to products and services, without discrimination.

9.2.6 Do not disclose information about customers obtained through business operations. Such information must generally be kept confidential unless disclosure is required by law.

9.2.7 Do not solicit, accept or provide any improper benefit in dealings with customers.

9.3 Conduct toward business partners

9.3.1 Comply with contracts, agreements and other terms with business partners. If compliance is not possible, promptly notify the business partner so that the parties can jointly find a solution and prevent damage.

9.3.2 Conduct procurement transparently to prevent corruption and misconduct at every stage of the procurement process.

9.3.3 Treat business partners consistently and fairly, on the basis of a fair return for both parties.

9.3.4 Do not solicit, accept or provide any improper benefit in dealings with business partners.

9.4 Conduct toward creditors

9.4.1 Strictly comply with contracts and agreements with creditors, including terms concerning guarantees, maintenance of collateral quality, investment management and financial ratios. Do not use borrowed funds for purposes inconsistent with the stated purpose of the loan. If compliance is not possible, promptly negotiate with the creditor to jointly find a solution and prevent damage.

9.4.2 Manage operations to ensure the Company's financial stability and ability to repay its debts.

9.4.3 Disclose accurate and complete financial information consistently.

9.5 Conduct toward competitors

9.5.1 Conduct business within the framework of fair competition.

9.5.2 Do not seek competitors' confidential information through dishonest or inappropriate means.

9.5.3 Do not attempt to damage a competitor's reputation through false accusations.

9.6 Conduct toward employees

9.6.1 Strictly comply with laws, rules and regulations concerning employees.

9.6.2 Provide appropriate compensation based on each employee's knowledge, skills, responsibilities and performance.

9.6.3 Make appointments, transfers, rewards and disciplinary decisions fairly and honestly, based on knowledge, capability, suitability and the employee's conduct or performance.

9.6.4 Treat employees with kindness and fairness. Give importance to employee development, knowledge sharing and capability building, and provide employees with equal and regular opportunities.

9.6.5 Maintain a working environment that is safe for employees' lives and health, and protect their property.

9.6.6 Encourage employee participation in determining work practices and resolving Company issues.

9.6.7 Listen equally and consistently to opinions and recommendations from employees at all levels.

9.6.8 Treat employees with respect for their human dignity and personal rights.

9.6.9 Provide employees and their representatives with material information about the Company's performance and the actual condition of the business.

9.6.10 Support and respect the protection of human rights, and ensure that the Company's business is not involved in human rights violations, such as forced labor or child labor.

9.6.11 Promote due diligence regarding human rights requirements in the Company's business and encourage compliance with international human rights principles.

9.6.12 Give importance to continuous personnel development to improve work efficiency and career progression. This includes internal and external training, academic and practical seminars, and promoting employees' understanding of the Code of Conduct they are required to follow.

9.7 Conduct toward society, communities and the environment

9.7.1 Conduct business in a manner that benefits the economy and society.

9.7.2 Give importance to community and social activities, with the aim of contributing to social, community and environmental development, conserving natural resources and supporting public-interest activities.

9.7.3 Continuously instill a sense of responsibility for society and the environment within the Company and among employees at all levels.

9.7.4 Cooperate with and monitor strict compliance with the spirit of the law and regulations issued by supervisory authorities.

9.7.5 Respond promptly and effectively to events affecting the environment and communities as a result of the Company's operations, and fully cooperate with government officials and relevant agencies.

9.7.6 Maintain confidence in the democratic system and encourage employees to exercise their voting rights under the Constitution.

9.7.7 Refrain from any action that could adversely affect the reputation of the country, society, the environment or the public interest.

Code of Conduct and Practices for Directors, Executives and Advisors

The Company expects directors, executives and advisors to perform their duties within the highest ethical standards and to maintain honesty, prudence and due care for the greatest benefit of the Company and all stakeholders. They are also expected to set a good example for employees. The Company has established the following Code of Conduct for directors, executives and advisors:

1. Perform duties in accordance with the law, the Company's objectives, regulations and resolutions of shareholders' meetings, as well as good corporate governance principles.

2. Perform duties to the fullest of one's ability for the greatest benefit of the Company, including attending Board meetings and meetings of other Board committees.

3. Manage the Company's affairs responsibly, prudently and honestly for the benefit of all stakeholders, both now and in the future, while preserving the Company's reputation.

4. Perform duties impartially. If a director, committee member, executive or advisor has an interest in a matter under consideration, that person must leave the meeting and refrain from participating in any consideration or decision on that matter.

5. Do not provide financial or other support, directly or indirectly, to political parties, political groups or persons involved in politics for the purpose of obtaining business benefits for the Company or personal or related-party benefits. Do not become involved in or exercise political influence, and maintain strict political neutrality.

6. Do not accept or pay bribes in any form, whether directly or indirectly, as an inducement for conduct that creates a mutual benefit or for anticipated benefits relating to the Company's business.

7. Perform duties in a manner that avoids conflicts between personal interests and the Company's interests, to ensure transparent and effective management. This includes:

- Do not use information obtained in the course of one's duties to seek benefits for oneself or others improperly.
- Do not misuse the Company's confidential information, and do not disclose confidential information even after one's employment or service has ended.
- Do not serve as a director of a company that competes with the Company.
- Do not obtain benefits or interests from the Company's contracts.
- Do not seek improper benefits from work, directly or indirectly.
- Do not accept assets or other benefits that conflict with the Company's interests for personal or family benefit.

8. Protect the Company's confidential information and do not allow it to reach unrelated persons where this could cause damage to the Company or its stakeholders, except where disclosure is required by law.
9. Directors and their family members must not hold shares in, or receive benefits from, a competing company or any business, including a customer or supplier, that may have a conflict of interest with the Company. However, where the Company's shares or the shares of such business are listed on a securities exchange, or where the investment is made through a mutual fund or investment unit, such investment shall not be considered a conflicting benefit if it does not affect the performance of duties for the Company.
10. Do not participate in the management or administration of another company in a manner that may undermine the Company's interests, or provide benefits to any person or juristic person, whether for one's own benefit or another's.
11. Do not use internal information for personal benefit in trading the Company's shares, or provide internal information to another person for trading the Company's shares.

12. Do not buy or sell the Company's shares for at least 30 days before the Company announces its financial statements or discloses its status, including other material information, and for at least 24 hours after such information has been disclosed to the public.

13. Report holdings of the Company's securities and any changes in those holdings to the Company in accordance with the Company's requirements, to prevent trading based on inside information.

Code of Conduct and Practices for Employees

To promote good and efficient work, employees should follow these practices:

1. Employees should perform their duties honestly, faithfully and diligently, continuously improving their work efficiency for the benefit of themselves and the Company.
2. Employees should strictly comply with the Company's work rules and regulations.
3. Employees should respect and follow the lawful instructions of their supervisors, in accordance with the Company's policies, rules and regulations.
4. Employees should maintain good relations, unity and cooperation, and assist one another. They should avoid conflicts that could cause harm to others or the Company.
5. Employees should respect one another and refrain from disclosing or criticizing another person's work or personal matters in a way that could cause harm to the employee or the Company.
6. Employees should avoid accepting gifts that could make them feel obligated in performing their duties. If a gift cannot be declined, they must immediately inform their supervisor.
7. Employees must not use their positions or work-related benefits to seek personal or family benefits or to conduct business that competes with the Company.
8. Employees and related persons must not disclose information to internal or external persons who have no relevant need to know, or seek benefits for themselves or related persons by using their positions or information that is confidential to the Company.
9. Employees should deal with customers and business partners honestly and fairly.
10. Employees must strictly protect the confidentiality of customers, business partners and the Company.

11. Employees should promptly report to their supervisors any matter that may affect the Company's operations or reputation.

12. Employees should maintain and protect the Company's interests and assets in good condition and make full use of them. They must not waste, neglect, damage or allow them to deteriorate before their useful life.

13. Employees should perform their duties with a sense of responsibility toward society and the environment, giving due regard to impacts on public health and the Company's environment.

Monitoring and Ensuring Compliance

1. It is the responsibility of the Board of Directors and employees to acknowledge, understand and strictly comply with the Business Code of Conduct.
2. Supervisors at every level are responsible for overseeing and ensuring that employees under their supervision genuinely comply with this Code.
3. Supervisors at every level must lead by example in complying with the Code and promote a working environment in which employees and related persons understand that compliance is proper and mandatory. No one may claim not to have known the practices set out in this Business Code of Conduct.
4. If there is uncertainty or a problem in making a decision or following a practice not specified in this Code, use initial discretion by asking the following questions about the proposed action before proceeding:
    - Is the action lawful?
    - Is the action consistent with the policies and organizational culture of the Union Petrochemical Group?
    - Is the action acceptable and suitable for disclosure to society?
    - Could the action damage the reputation or image of the Union Petrochemical Group?
    - Could the action seriously harm any stakeholder of the Union Petrochemical Group?

Employees may consult their supervisors at the appropriate level, who are responsible for providing initial guidance, or contact the department responsible for the matter directly.

Reporting Concerns About the Business Code of Conduct

The Company expects all employees of the Union Petrochemical Group to work together to uphold good corporate governance and comply with the Business Code of Conduct. Employees are encouraged to report in good faith any conduct that they believe, or suspect, may violate applicable principles to their supervisors through the appropriate chain of command.

Information provided will be treated as confidential. Reports supported by clear evidence will be handled consistently, transparently and impartially. An appropriate investigation period will be established. The complainant's identity will be kept confidential, and the complainant will be protected from retaliation both during and after the investigation.

Discipline

The Company's Business Code of Conduct is a disciplinary matter that all directors and employees must preserve and strictly observe. Employees who violate or fail to comply with this Code may be subject to disciplinary action in accordance with the Company's employee policies, rules and regulations concerning discipline and disciplinary penalties.

All employees are responsible for complying with this Code and encouraging others to do so. The following conduct constitutes a violation of the Code:

- Failure to comply with the Business Code of Conduct.
- Advising, encouraging or supporting another person in failing to comply with the Business Code of Conduct.
- Neglecting to report a violation or suspected violation of the Business Code of Conduct that one knows or should know about through one's work responsibilities.
- Refusing to cooperate or obstructing an investigation into alleged violations or non-compliance with the Business Code of Conduct.
- Treating another person unfairly because that person reported non-compliance with the Business Code of Conduct.

Any such violation shall be handled in accordance with the Company's personnel management procedures and disciplinary rules. Employees may also be subject to penalties under applicable law if the conduct constitutes an offense.

Policy reviewed and effective from 14 August 2026

Note: Approved by the Board of Directors at Meeting No. 5/2026 on 14 August 2026.
